

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An artificial tooth-root body, having a male thread part to become engaged with a jaw bone and a supporting stage for mounting an artificial tooth, is provided with a self tapping part, in order to maintain the stable mounting status for a long time by preventing the loosening due to secular distortion, and to reduce the laborious and long-time therapy.